OPORTO, Portugal (AP) — A train loaded with holiday makers returning from this northern city jumped the rails Sunday night and hospital officials estimated the dead at least 70.

Doctors estimated they had treated at least 125 others for injuries.

The accident occurred 12 miles north of here near the village of Custosias. The train, diesel, had left the popular seaside resort of Povea de Varzim loaded with weekend travelers.

Stolen Body Recovered

SKOKIE, Ill. (AP) — The body of a 14-year-old girl, stolen from a casket in a Skokie mortuary, was found Sunday in an alley in Evanston, a suburb north of Chicago.

The nude body of pretty Theresa Koergen was found in the middle of the alley by a motorist driving to his garage.

Meanwhile Skokie police were questioning a 16-year-old Evanston youth who, they said, had been pestering Theresa for dates. Also questioned was a man who had been seen loitering in the vicinity of the chapel for several days. No charges have been made against either.

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The moon moves across the sky Monday like a target in a cosmic shooting gallery and the United States plans to take dead aim at it with the Ranger 7 spacecraft.

The unmanned photographic expedition was scheduled for launching aboard an Atlas-Agena rocket in a period between 11:32 a.m. and 1:42 p.m. (EST).

If nothing goes wrong on the quarter-million-mile trip, Ranger 7 will reach the moon Thursday morning.

U. S., Saigon To Pep War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and South Viet Nam reportedly are about ready to announce new measures to step up the war against the Communist guerrillas.

While there has been no indication as to the exact nature of the new measures, they are expected to emphasize this country's determination to support the freedom and the independence of South Viet Nam. And they do not involve spreading the war to North Viet Nam.

Klan Official For Goldwater

ATLANTA (AP) — Georgia's top Ku Klux Klan official announced Saturday his support for Senator Barry Goldwater for President.

Grand Dragon Calvin F. Craig of Atlanta said his endorsement of the Republican candidate was based not on personality but the issues. The Grand Dragon is a candidate for the State Senate in the Sept. 9 Democratic primary.

Senate To Try Crash Session

WASHINGTON (AP) — A novel share-the-leadship plan gets a second trial Monday by Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., when Congress begins what most members hope is its final month of this session.

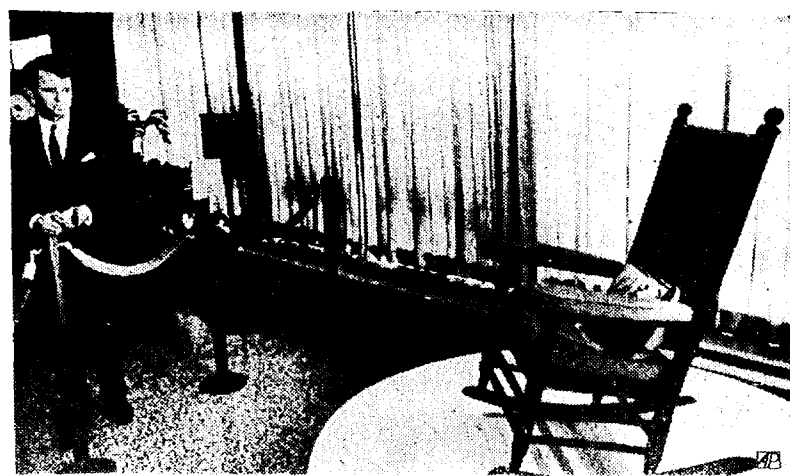

Eager to button up President Johnson's ambitious list of legislation, Mansfield asked the other 66 Democratic senators to a second closed caucus at 10 a.m. Monday.

"I had hoped to get some of the several appropriations bills through last week," Mansfield said. "This caucus should give us a chance to improve the legislative schedule."

Four Die In Nanticoke Fire

NANTICOKE, Pa. (AP) — Four brothers were killed in a fire that destroyed their two-story frame home Sunday despite efforts by their father to save them. The father, mother and a daughter were seriously injured.

The victims were identified as William Neely, 10, Howard, 7, David, 5, and Carl, 3. Admitted to Nanticoke State Hospital with burns were the father, William, 38, his wife, Mary, 38, and a daughter, Mary, 13.

Rocky Calls Guard To Rochester Riots

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A show of force by steel-helmeted National Guardsmen carrying bayonets failed to halt sporadic rioting by Negroes Sunday night after three persons had died in the crash of a police helicopter.

Massive destruction moved into its third night. Police used tear gas and fire hoses to break up one crowd of hundreds of shouting Negroes who had gathered in the already ravaged Joseph Avenue area.

Police were called after looters broke apart the boards covering a previously looted corner store.

Molotov Cocktails
In another incident, police fired warning shots at a housing project where Molotov cocktails were being hurled.

The National Guardsmen, riding in trucks, moved through the Jefferson and Plymouth Avenue Negro section late Sunday night without incident. The 189 guardsmen, part of 1,000 called to duty, carried unloaded bayonet-tipped rifles but did not have ammunition.

However, reports of incidents continued to keep police busy and they braced for more trouble. More than 1,000 state and local police have found it impossible to enforce an official 8 p.m. curfew.

The Guardsmen made their show of strength after they were called out by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller.

OAS Ministers Condemn Castro

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American republics signed Sunday a historic declaration condemning Communist Cuba for aggression and approving strong economic and diplomatic sanctions against the Fidel Castro regime.

The document also clears the way for the American nations, alone or in a group, to use armed force against Cuba if it continues what the ministers officially described as aggression and subversion against other hemisphere republics.

The specific condemnation was of Cuban efforts to overthrow the government of Venezuela.

The resolution calls for diplomatic and trade sanctions, directing that no member nation of the Organization of American States maintain diplomatic or trade ties with Havana but giving no deadline for the severing of such ties.

The declaration became official when representatives of 20 nations signed the document as the final act of the ninth Conference of Foreign Ministers of the Americas.

JIMMY HOFFA — Teamsters Union president, Hoffa had been doggedly pursued by the federal government at the instigation of Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy. Finally, earlier this year, he was convicted of bribing a jury. Now, he has been convicted of fraud and conspiracy. He could get 20 years in jail.

Union Boss Nabbed For Pension Loans

CHICAGO (AP) — James R. Hoffa, president of the huge Teamsters union, was convicted of fraud Sunday in arranging loans from the multimillion-dollar Teamsters pension fund. Six codefendants also were convicted of fraud by a jury in U.S. District Court.

Hoffa was found guilty on three counts of fraud and the single conspiracy count. The maximum penalty could be 20 years' imprisonment and $15,000 fine.

Each of the fraud counts carried a maximum of 5 years and a $10,000 fine; the conspiracy count also carried a 5 year penalty and a $10,000 fine.

Under Appeal
Less than five months ago, on March 4, Hoffa was convicted in Chattanooga, Tenn., of attempting to bribe a jury. He was sentenced to eight years in prison. He has appealed that case.

The reading of the verdict took place before Judge Richard B. Austin in a courtroom on the sixth floor of the Federal Building at the end of a trial that lasted 13 weeks.

Each of the seven defendants was charged with 20 counts of fraud and one count of conspiracy in fraudulently arranging loans more than $29 million from the pension fund and diverting more than $1 million to themselves.

The verdicts were delivered count by count — a time-consuming process in a courtroom charged with excitement and guarded heavily by U.S. marshals.

Judge Austin was wearing a white sport shirt and a string tie when he arrived at the courthouse. There was a delay while a defendant, Benjamin Dranow, was brought from the DuPage County Jail in Wheaton.

Among the spectators in the courtroom were U.S. Atty. Ed. ward Hamrah; Joey Glimen, 15 counts and innocent on 15.

Police Ban On Carnival Gambling Irks Firemen

STROUDSBURG — Area firemen voiced strong disapproval yesterday of a recently announced policy by state police to halt gambling at volunteer firemen's carnivals.

Sgt. Michael Boiwka, commander of the Stroud Twp. Volunteer Fire Company, whose carnival begins Aug. 3, said that he had sent a letter of protest to Boiwka, and copies to the commander of the local troop at his headquarters in Hazleton, and E. Wilson Purdy, state police commissioner.

Want To Know
"What, we the volunteers, want to know is why all of a sudden this is being done? We have held carnivals for years and years and years, and now have trouble like this from the State Police. . . . The income of the carnival's receipts will be cut in half due to this stoppage if such a thing is continued," the letter said in part.

Frank Dreisbach, chairman of the Marshalls Creek Volunteer Fire Company carnival, which runs three consecutive Saturdays beginning Aug. 8, summed up the firemen's position.

"When you're not supported by taxation, you have to finance somehow. Up until now we've been immune (from interference) because of what we do. We want to go ahead with all our carnival. We've taken no action at this point," he said. However, a special meeting of the company is scheduled soon, he added.

His company receives no tax money whatsoever, he said, and depends on its carnival to meet 90 per cent of its expenses. He estimated that if it has to close the seven gambling booths, it too, will lose half its expected receipts.

LeBar said that Stroud Twp. firemen receive $5,000 from the township, but must meet the rest of its budget from the carnival. He pointed out that the company would have called off its carnival had it known of state police intentions before letting contracts.

Should Allow Gambling
LeBar said that the fire companies felt that despite state laws of gambling, the carnivals should be allowed to utilize gambling. The money is not taken for individual profit but is returned to the people of the area in the form of service, he explained.

The state law says that "All lotteries, whether public or private, for moneys, goods, wares or merchandise, chattels, lands, tenements, hereditaments, or other matters or things whatsoever, are hereby declared to be common nuisances." Penalty is "a fine not exceeding five hundred dollars, or (to) undergo imprisonment, by separate or solitary confinement at labor, not exceeding one (1) year, or both."

The three elements necessary to constitute a lottery, according to a court decision, are "a prize to be won, the determination of the winner by chance, and a consideration."

Maj. W. J. Stanton, chief of the state police detective bureau, told the Daily Record, "It is our policy to enforce gambling laws."

Text of LeBar's letter to Boiwka is:

"Why are the State Police jumping on the Volunteer Fire Companies again? The statement in The Daily Record on Saturday by Sgt. Michael Boiwka of the Stroudsburg Substation of the Pennsylvania State Police said, 'I'm going to make an arrest if I see any gambling at the carnivals.'"

"Show me one thing in life that isn't a gamble. Firemen set these carnivals up so that the public can help and support the fire department in raising funds and also enjoy an evening out."

"All money taken in on these Volunteer Firemen's Carnivals is actually turned back to the community by buying fire trucks and fire equipment, ambulance and emergency equipment which is used to help and prevent the loss of lives. I can see the crackdown on gambling if the money is being used personally and only one person is benefitting, but this is a community and public affair."

"These men that operate the carnivals are actually volunteer servants of the public who answer any emergency calls whether fires, rescues, or any other emergency that may arise and require the services."

"Also it sometimes ends in death as we all saw some weeks ago."

"Money taken in at these carnivals also is used to buy insurance for the men who so unselfishly answer any call for help."

The three elements necessary to constitute a lottery, according to a court decision, are "a prize to be won, the determination of the winner by chance, and a consideration."

Police 'Copter Crashes On Rochester Riot Duty

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A helicopter surveying the city's West Side, which is torn by racial violence, crashed into a three-story house Sunday, set the house afire and fell into the street in flames.

At least three persons were killed.

A police official said one of the dead had been in the helicopter. The other two, he said, lived in the house, believed occupied entirely by Negroes.

Two men were pulled alive from the craft.

Executive Deputy Police Chief Henry H. Jensen collapsed at the scene.

The frame house was the home for 16 people, Elijah Davis, 44, the superintendent, said. He said he did not know how many escaped.

Mrs. Gladys Gaines, who had been sitting on the front porch, said later her five children fled the house safely.

The helicopter struck a parked automobile, which also caught fire. The car was empty. The helicopter was circling over a crowd that had gathered at the corner of Clarissa and Tremont Sts., a trouble spot in the rioting Saturday night and early Sunday.

Witnesses said the helicopter crashed into a gable on top of the house.

A Negro, Prophet Starks, 27, ran to the flaming helicopter and pulled out two persons before he was driven away by flames.

"I couldn't see how many more people were in the helicopter," he said.

Hundreds of persons quickly gathered at the scene. Some faint.

Others screamed out: "My baby's in there." "Save those people."

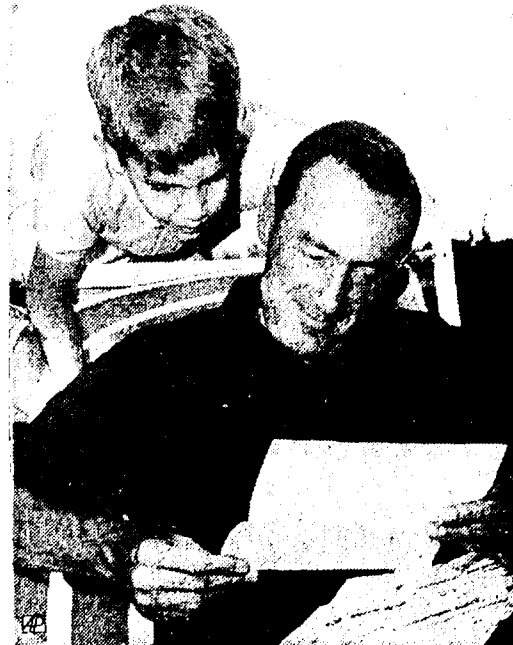

Among those aboard the helicopter was Robert Abbott, Monroe County civil defense director.

A Negro man who was walking along Clarissa street, said: "I looked up the street and the helicopter was about 50 feet high. The pilot wasn't looking where he was going and dropped down."

Clark Complains On Flood Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., said the rejection of a Pennsylvania application for federal funds for a flood control project at Stroudsburg, Pa., "does not speak well for the word of the U.S. government."

Clark, in a letter to Lt. Gen. W.K. Wilson, chief of Army Engineers, Saturday protested the rejection by one of its divisions of the $1,788,000 application.

"This seems to be a complete reversal of federal intentions since the flood of 1955," Clark wrote. "It certainly does not speak well for the word of the U.S. government."

The funds, which would represent reimbursement by the federal government for work already performed by the state, were approved by the district engineer but the North Atlantic Division engineer at New York recommended against their approval, Clark said.

The flood control project was planned after 1955 floods killed many persons in the Stroudsburg area. Clark said Pennsylvania undertook the project after the Army promised to reimburse the state for part of the cost.

Clark enclosed a letter from Genevieve Blatt, Pennsylvania secretary of internal affairs, who said the Army was acting in bad faith.

Scott Ponders Barry Position

WASHINGTON (AP)—An aide to Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., says the senator will confer with GOP colleagues here before deciding whether to support Sen. Barry Goldwater for President.

When asked Saturday what Scott's position was, the aide said: "There is to be no statement. He wants to confer with his running mates."

Republican members of Congress from Pennsylvania plan to caucus Wednesday and Scott will probably attend. Rep. Robert J. Corbett, dean of Pennsylvania House members, said Goldwater undoubtedly will be the main topic of conversation.

Scott was floor manager at the Republican National Convention for Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania who opposed the Arizona conservative for the nomination.

Police Alarmed About Juveniles

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The 51st annual convention of the Pennsylvania Chiefs of Police Association opened here Sunday with attention spotlighted on what one official described as an alarming increase in juvenile crime and delinquency.

Some 200 top-ranking law enforcement officials, their wives and guests are expected to attend the four-day meeting.

Police concern over the juvenile problem was expressed by the association's executive director, Francis J. Schafer, of Harrisburg. He said:

"Juvenile offenders are taking refuge behind the present age at which juveniles are held directly accountable for their offenses. Police officers — and this is a matter of grave public concern — find that under existing conditions the enforcement of the law is becoming increasingly difficult."

Schafer was assistant superintendent of police in Pittsburgh before his appointment as PCPA executive secretary a year ago.

He indicated delegates to the convention here probably would consider steps to lower the legal juvenile age from 18 to 16, and to make it mandatory that such crimes as murder and other crimes of violence when committed by a minor be heard in the general courts rather than the juvenile courts as at present.

Dynamite Truck Brakes Fail

REYNOLDSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — A dynamite laden truck veered from a highway and hit two trees near this Jefferson County town Friday to avoid hitting six stopped autos, but there was no explosion and no one was injured.

The truck, driven by Thale McGinis, 30, of Sligo RD 3, was on a hill approaching a railroad crossing when McGinis realized he had no brakes. To avoid the vehicles waiting for a passing freight McGinis swerved from the road and crashed into two trees. He suffered only minor cuts.

Civil Rights Issue Helps Goldwater

By Louis Harris
LOS ANGELES — The gains Sen. Barry Goldwater has scored since the Republican convention come primarily from three groups of voters: those who feel that the pace of civil rights progress has been too fast, those who look on themselves as conservatives and those Republicans who had said earlier that they would vote for Mr. Johnson or were not sure which of the two men they preferred.

These three groups provide most of the 10 per cent of all voters who have shifted to the Arizona senator in the past three weeks. As reported Wednesday, however, President Johnson still holds a decisive 64-36 per cent lead over Goldwater.

Could Cut Lead
If between now and November Senator Goldwater were to continue the same rate of gain among these three overlapping groups, he could register as much as another 9 per cent increase.

This would reduce Mr. Johnson's lead to 55-45 per cent. However, such a margin for the President would approximate Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's 1952 victory over Adlai Stevenson—a landslide by political standards.

In order to win, Senator Goldwater has to find ways of cutting into present huge Johnson leads among middle-of-the-road and independent voters.

Minds Change
As a result of the San Francisco convention, Senator Goldwater obviously recaptured a substantial number of normal Republicans who had been wavering in their support for the Arizona senator.

Before the convention, 30 per cent of GOP voters said they could not vote for Goldwater if he were nominated. How many of them will change their minds during the campaign will have a bearing on its outcome.

The pattern of victory for the Republicans during the Eisenhower years was to hold solidly onto the hard-core GOP vote and then to cut heavily into the normal Democratic vote in northern cities and in the South.

Mr. Johnson's lead today can be directly attributed to the fact that he had maintained losses among Democrats and has appeal for large numbers of Republicans.

Ideology Debate
Another key dimension in this election, however, deals with ideology. For the first time in many years, the American electorate is faced with a choice between a candidate who is a self-avowed conservative and one who is liberal or middle of the road.

Senator Goldwater scored well with his fellow conservatives over the past three weeks. He now holds a solid lead among that 29 per cent of the electorate that classifies itself as conservative. Further Goldwater gains can be expected here.

Middle Of Road Support
The big Johnson lead, however, is clearly fashioned out of combining his 79-21 per cent lead among liberals and his 69-31 per cent lead among middle of the roaders.

Finally, despite disclaimers by both candidates on the race issue, civil rights remains the most volatile and—up to now—the most decisive element in this 1964 election.

Senator Goldwater gained fully half of his 10-point surge from people who feel the pace of progress on civil rights has been too fast. This has already given him a clear lead in the South, and the full impact of the so-called "white backlash" in the North is not yet known.

Civil Rights Key Issue
Senator Goldwater can be expected to make further gains from the 31 per cent of the voters who want to see the pace of civil rights progress slowed. This percentage could, of course, change in the months ahead.

However, even if the senator makes further gains among regular Republicans, and those who now want to slow down on civil rights—gains equal to those he has already scored—the overlap among these groups would still leave him 45-55 per cent behind.

It is evident that as of now simply an appeal to conservatives, especially along race lines, will not yield Senator Goldwater the votes he needs to make this race close.

The dilemma for the senator can therefore be posed this way: if he continues on the road he took at the Republican convention, he will gain some ground, but not enough to win with the present political line-up in this country.

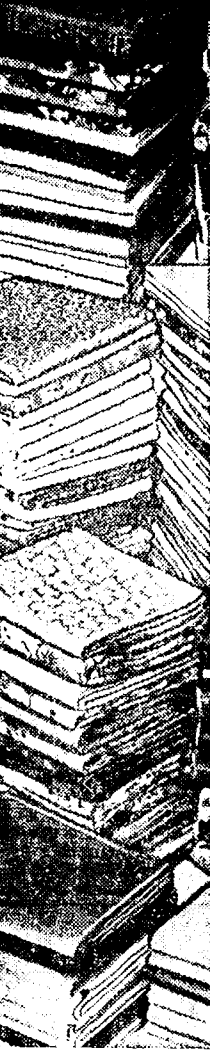

It is also true that when he was front and center at the GOP convention he was essentially fighting on his own ground, and consequently gained among all groups in the electorate.

A major question is how far and how hard he can press his conservative views without forcing middle-of-the-road and liberal voters to bolt in even greater numbers to Lyndon Johnson.

On the other hand, if Goldwater were to suddenly become moderate, could he continue to make gains among avowed conservative voters?

These are the sensitive dimensions of this election that must be closely watched.

Frederick D. Shutter

F. D. Shutter To Attend Bank School

STROUDSBURG — Frederick D. Shutter, auditor and branch manager of The First-Stroudsburg National Bank, has been accepted as a first year student in the NABAC School for Bank Audit, Control and Operation.

He will be among 465 bankers from throughout the Western Hemisphere attending the school's 12th annual session being conducted August 2-15 at the University of Wisconsin, Madison.

The school, sponsored by NABAC, The Association for Bank Audit, Control and Operation, offers a three-year program and attendance is limited.

It is the only professional banking school designed to provide people with bank accounting, auditing and control responsibilities an opportunity to expand their knowledge.

To graduate Mr. Shutter must attend the three-year course and complete assigned extension problems between sessions. The school's faculty includes approximately 50 of the nation's leading bankers in the areas taught. Classroom work is augmented by informal evening seminars.

Shutter has been associated with the First-Stroudsburg National Bank for 18 years. He lives at 248 Broadhead Avenue, East Stroudsburg, Pa. with his wife Beulah.

Assn. Elects Prospect Cemetery

EAST STROUDSBURG — Board of Directors of the National Assn. of Cemeteries, has approved membership for Prospect Cemetery, Inc., of East Stroudsburg, S. Jerome Rubin, secretary-treasurer of the cemetery recently reported.

It is the only cemetery in Monroe County to belong to the organization, he said. Rubin explained that membership in the national organization "pledges the cemetery to operate in accordance with the highest ethics and standards. It also pledges a cemetery to develop and maintain its grounds in the most beautiful way possible."

Prospect Cemetery, he continued, is the only cemetery in the county with an "irrevocable trust fund." It is established with the First Stroudsburg National Bank, and "guarantees perpetual care of the Prospect Cemetery grounds to eternity," he said.

Plans at the cemetery include development of Evergreen Hill Memorial Gardens, he added. Rubin explained that the design is "based on the sentiment that the final resting place should be one of quiet beauty." A new chapel, office and roads are also planned, he concluded.

Houdaille Profit Up 26 Per Cent

BUFFALO, N.Y. — Houdaille Industries, Inc., reported net earnings per share, after preferred dividends, for the six months increased 26 per cent on an 8 per cent increase in net sales, according to Gerald C. Saltavelli, chairman and president.

For the 1964 six months, the company had net earnings of $2,002,008, compared with $1,627,603 for the comparable period in 1963.

Based on 1,264,353 common shares presently outstanding, and after preferred dividends, the earnings are equal to $1.31 per share for the 1964 first half and $1.04 for the similar period of 1963.

Sales of construction materials and contracting, industrial products, and automotive products for the six months totaled $38,007,831, compared with sales of $33,339,386 in the 1963 first half.

Mr. Saltavelli said that sales were running at the highest rate in the company's history and reflected increased volume in all three major operating areas.

The Louisiana heron has a life span of 17 years.

Philadelphia Orchestra Firsts

By Henry Poller
Executive Director
Pocono Art Center

SHAWNEE — ON — DELAWARE — "Firsts" seem to be a habit with the Philadelphia Orchestra, which will be heard here at Shawnee Inn on August 11 and 12, under the direction of Eugene Ormandy.

The Philadelphia Orchestra was the first symphonic ensemble to make a record, to be featured on a sponsored radio broadcast, to appear in a motion picture, to be seen on a telecast and the first major symphony to appear in the Poconos.

The Philadelphia Orchestra and Leopold Stokowski crossed the Delaware River on October 22, 1917, to visit the RCA Victor Studios in Camden, N.J. After a day's struggle with primitive recording apparatus under the most uncomfortable physical conditions, the Philadelphia Orchestra turned out the world's first symphonic records: The Fifth and Sixth Hungarian Dances of Johannes Brahms.

Ever since, recordings have become an integral part of the Orchestra's activities and one of its larger sources of revenue. With the coming of electronic methods, the orchestra began to make discs in its own auditorium. The development of new techniques and equipment made it possible to record under concert conditions in the Academy of Music.

With further advances in sound reproduction and the advent of stereo, the orchestra moved its recording sessions to Philadelphia's Town Hall and to the Philadelphia Athletic Club where the acoustics are particularly suited to modern recording techniques.

Since 1943 the Philadelphia Orchestra has been under exclusive contract to Columbia Masterworks.

The first front-rank ensemble to be featured in films, Stokowski and the Philadelphia Orchestra made their screen debut in "The Big Broadcast of 1937."

This was followed by "100 Men and a Girl," which starred the then enormously popular Deanna Durbin.

Several years later the orchestra made the sound track for Walt Disney's experimental cartoon spectacular, "Fantasia."

The first commercially-sponsored symphonic broadcast given in the United States was played by the Philadelphia Orchestra on Sunday afternoon, October 6, 1929, for the Philco Corp.

It was carried by fifty stations of the National Broadcasting Co. and was relayed to Europe, South America and Asia by short wave.

Under Eugene Ormandy, the orchestra became the first symphonic ensemble to appear before the television cameras, with an hour-long program over the Columbia network on March 20, 1948.

Eugene Ormandy and the Philadelphia Orchestra will continue their visits to the Pocono area presenting the two concerts for benefit of the Pocono Art Center's building fund.

Violent Negro Riots

The violent Negro riots in Harlem, Brooklyn and Rochester in the past week have been radically different in cause, intensity and purpose from civil rights demonstrations across the nation in the past year.

These outbreaks of savagery and lawless destruction bear little or no resemblance to the non-violent picket or sit-in method used by most Negro civil rights groups to win new rights or service in public places.

Rock and bottle throwing Negroes in Harlem, Brooklyn and Rochester have not been led by the moderate Negro organizations working for civil rights.

They have been instigated, encouraged and led by extremists, Black Nationalists, Communists and outright criminals bent on looting and profiting from public disorder.

It is unfortunate that moderate Negro leaders have been embarrassed and injured in their cause by these outbreaks of bitter Negro feeling against police, property-owners, law and order.

As Roy Wilkins, executive secretary of the National Association of Advancement for Colored People, said, "The promise of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 could well be diminished or nullified."

The riots, injuries, and destruction of the past week have definitely hurt the Negro civil rights cause, not only among the white bigots of the land, but also among those moderate whites of good will who are antagonized and scared by the possibility of increasing Negro violence.

The riots have confirmed the worst opinions of Negroes held by white bigots and they have shaken the confidence of white moderates who believe and want to continue believing that the Negro can and should be integrated into American society.

It is a shame that Negro hoodlums and criminals have been able to destroy in a week the groundwork of goodwill which moderate Negro leaders have worked for 100 years to create.

A Futile Meeting

Senator Barry Goldwater went to the White House Friday and asked President Johnson to help avoid inciting racial tensions during the election campaign.

In a masterpiece of meaningless rhetoric, the two party leaders said in a joint statement after a 16-minute meeting:

"The President met with Senator Goldwater and reviewed the steps he had taken to avoid the incitement of racial tensions. Senator Goldwater expressed his opinion, which was that racial tensions should be avoided. Both agreed on this position."

It is unfair to accuse either President Johnson or Senator Goldwater of inciting racial tensions in America today, but the votes, beliefs, statements and followers of Goldwater have cast him in the role of the anti-Negro candidate in this election campaign.

If Goldwater sincerely wants to avoid the appearance of cynical and immoral counting of the "white backlash" and the anti-Negro vote, he must publicly condemn and disown those who support him because they think he will not help the cause of Negro civil rights in America.

If he wants to keep the racial issue out of the campaign, let him publicly criticize white extremists as well as Negro extremists.

Let Goldwater disown the Georgia Ku Klux Klan leader who endorsed him Saturday. Then the public will know clearly where he stands on this most important issue in the election campaign.

Walter Lippmann

Harlem, Cow Palace

By Walter Lippmann

Anyone trying to look at the Harlem riots in the light of the official ideology adopted in the Cow Palace is bound, it seems to me, to quote Grover Cleveland. We are dealing not with a theory, but with a condition.

There is no meaningful relationship between the Harlem riots and the Cow Palace theories. The rioting did not break out because the Goldwater platform is not sympathetic with the grievances of the Negroes. The rioting did not break out because a coalition of Republicans and Democrats have enacted the civil rights bill.

The rioting did not break out because the budget is unbalanced or because the Federal Government has an enormously large bureaucracy or because the federal government has usurped the powers of the states.

As a police problem, which it is in the first instance, the Harlem disorders are the responsibility of the New York City government and its police force. If they cannot cope with the disorder, they can call for help upon the governor of New York and the Federal Government. But Federal and state intervention are bound to remain secondary.

The main responsibility is and will always remain that of the mayor of New York. We must suppose, therefore, that when Senator Goldwater inveighs against crime and declares that the streets must be made safer for law-abiding citizens, he is not suggesting that we establish in this country a national police force commanded by the President. For of all imaginable kinds of power and potential threats to local and individual freedom, a national police force would be the most blatant.

If he were President, Senator Goldwater could do no more than President Johnson in his efforts to restore law and order.

When we look beneath the immediate need, which is to stop the rioting, we are confronted most vividly with a condition — a condition of racial conflict — with which the Cow Palace ideology does not come to grips. The condition is that so many of the grievances which more and more Negroes find unendurable are not redressed by the civil rights act itself and can be redressed only so slowly that the leadership of the moderate Negroes is threatened by the Negro extremists. The moderates are being told that in the face of injustice "moderation is no virtue."

These unredressed grievances have to do with housing, jobs and schools. They will continue to be for a long time inferior to the standards of white people. The "white backlash" is at these points of friction where better housing, better jobs and better schools for Negroes threaten to encroach on the somewhat better, but not much better, housing, jobs and schools of the poorer whites.

Senator Goldwater has shown a commendable distaste for identifying himself with the white backlash. But the ideology of the Cow Palace would do nothing to allay and much to aggravate the racial conflict between the grievances of the Negroes and the grievances of the whites. For the fact remains that the protest of the whites is against the redress of the grievances of the Negroes.

For one thing, the platform is tailored to attract the votes of the white supremacists, and the immediate withdrawal of Gov. George Wallace from the Presidential race is proof that the platform was accurately tailored. The whole weight of the platform is to throw the onus of racial disorder on the Negroes and at the same time to do nothing much to redress the grievances of the Negroes.

For the indisputable truth of the matter is that in general throughout the country, it would be impossible to provide better houses, better schools and better jobs through the state and local governments alone. Without substantial increases of federal aid to the states and localities, without an effective fiscal policy which increases employment, neither the mayor of New York nor the mayor of Phoenix can alone deal with the causes of crime and disorder.

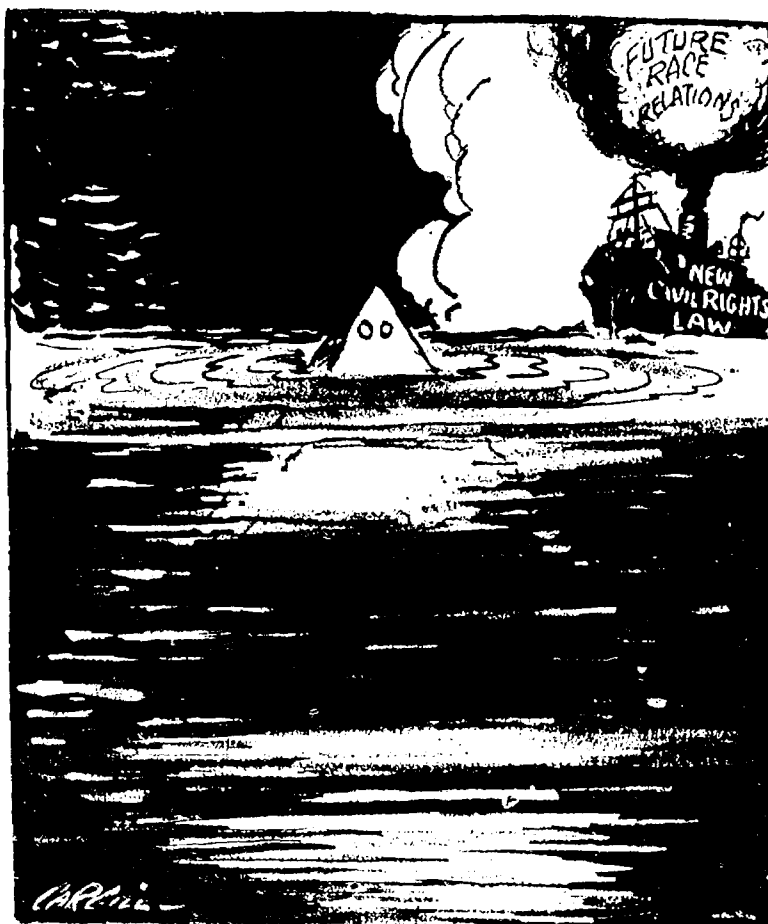

If we look at the facts and not at the theories, we must see, I think, that the truth is more comprehensive than the theories. Neither the elephant nor the donkey can walk on his two right legs alone. The truth is that to deal with a great condition like the racial movement, it is necessary to act at all the levels of government, from the precinct to the federal republic. Not only is it necessary to act at all levels, it is also necessary to act more energetically at all levels.

The condition which confronts us involves the happiness of millions and the tranquility and security of all, dealing with it is a public responsibility from which no citizen can exempt himself.

Van Yetter Thanked For Trailer Loan

Editor, The Daily Record:

This is the first letter to an editor I have ever attempted and I am certain that mere words will prove inadequate in trying to express our gratefulness for the prompt response, kindness and cooperation Rep. Van D. Yetter extended to my parents in the recent disaster.

It is imperative that the victims remain close to their property so they can be readily accessible for the hundreds of problems and questions that must be answered and solved.

The use of the trailers that Rep. Yetter offered is making it possible for the people to pick up the remnants of a lifetime of work. A friend in need is a friend indeed. Thank you Representative for indeed coming to our rescue in a time of need.

Urges End To Killing In Viet Nam

Editor, The Daily Record:

Many people are appalled as well as I—at the atrocities committed by government troops as well as our air force commanders in South Vietnam against the Vietnamese people.

We are fighting a war of genocide for no reason — except to drive communism out, when we don't understand the underprivileged half-starved people of Vietnam. Instead of joining us, they hate us more and more and join the other side, thus becoming the enemy!

Let's wake up and withdraw our troops before what is supposed to be "free" becomes a land of corpses — which is what it is becoming!

Reader Gives Thanks Again To Mr. Hoover

Editor, The Daily Record:

Thanks for your recent controversial editorial on J. Edgar Hoover. I wholeheartedly disagree with you, but the editorial was a reminder that another year had passed and this might be my last opportunity to thank a very worthy man. The late Lee Mortimer (New York Daily Mirror) was a grateful citizen, and he always made a point to remind us readers, who were a bit slack, but grateful, that it was time again to let Mr. Hoover know of our appreciation.

Thank you,

What? No Program?

If you think you're buggy now with television commercials, there is a distinct possibility that you will be driven right out of your mind if the Rogers Bill, H. R. 8316 passes the Senate.

Already the bill has sauntered with no fanfare through the House of Representatives during the time when Congress was making its most noise about the civil rights bill.

The Rogers (more talking and less programming masterpiece) would prohibit the Federal Communications Commission from making any rules to limit the length, total amount, or frequency of radio or television commercials.

The FCC has had some trouble fully enforcing the rules. And there were violations, but the federal government group does have regulations limiting the amount of time that can be devoted to commercials on radio and television.

Capital Hill has been lugged by the National Association for Better Radio and Television. The citizens' group blow "watch out" horns when the bill was before the House. But the Housemen defeated them with a 317-43 victory for Rogers.

It is possible that future television will feature. For example, Bonanza, in a program scheduled for one hour. Here's the way it would go:

"Study Suds brings you Bonanza. Now let's hear from our sponsor." Twenty-three minutes later the first scenes are shown of Bonanza. After a one minute ride down Ponderosa, a new sponsor sells Slippery Elm for a slippery 24 minutes.

If that is not enough to send you to the icebox for the last of Tate 'Em Home Plenty, the channel will plug one of their upcoming programs for another five minutes.

That leaves Loren Greene just two minutes to ride back across the Ponderosa, so the announcer can bleed Suds Suds and Slippery Elm

About Town —By Gene Brown

From Brown's Book For Older Girls:

When you are through with your charcoal dump your unburned briquettes in a pile of water with a few holes in the bottom. The water quenches the fire and runs out the bottom and you have good charcoal for the next cookout. Repeat this process till you get tired of eating charcoal.

Had the opportunity of going through the famed General Motors Panorama at the World's Fair which is most exciting as you ride in a tunnel past the world of tomorrow except that you go so fast that the world slips right past you and you are right back into the unhappy present of which we know enough.

Also saw the Travelers Insurance show at the Fair, which also takes you into a tunnel (walking this time) past the various stages of man and again was impressed with the fact that prehistoric man while beheaded and frequently beheaded was no worse off than we are. He had the pleasure of dragging his women around by the hair which in this State is CONSIDERED A CAPITAL OFFENSE . . . especially by the women. Skip this show, those good old days will never come back.

The boss caught an employee returning from the barber shop during business hours. "How come you got a haircut on company time?" he demanded. "It grew on company time," said the guy. "It didn't all grow on company time." "I didn't have all of it cut."

If there have been too many personal-nature items in this column the last few days it is only because there have been a dearth of good jokes to uncover and we have been forced to be original . . . this condition should clear up soon.

Two people can live as cheaply as one what?

Women are now at a distinct disadvantage — man has finally learned to travel faster than sound.

The Allen-Scott Report

Johnson Warned

Robert S. Allen

WASHINGTON — President Johnson is receiving blunt advice from Democratic party leaders on one of his growing political problems — the defection of ethnic group voters to GOP presidential nominee Barry Goldwater.

Aroused by private polls showing shifts of 10 to 20 per cent among Polish-American voters in the big Eastern and Midwestern cities, Senator Thomas Dodd, D-Conn., Speaker John McCormack, and Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley have privately called on the President to take a tougher stand on the two major issues affecting these nationally groups. They warned the President that he must publicly support a stouter stand against continued Communist expansion, and control over the Eastern European satellites.

In one White House meeting, Senator Dodd, a long-time political ally, frankly told the President that if the administration's policy of seeking "accommodations" with the Soviet Union isn't shelved, it could cost him the election.

"Goldwater's charge that the administration is seeking peace with Russia at the expense of the people in Eastern Europe is having as much impact on the nationality groups as the backlash from civil rights," reported Dodd.

"The polls are beginning to show this," agreed the President. "You have always been a strong anti-Communist. Nobody can accuse you of being soft. What do you recommend I do to counteract this development?"

"I would be just as tough on the Communists as Goldwater," replied Dodd. "And I would begin by shelving the policy of seeking accommodations with the Soviet Union. This could be done by inserting a strong plank in the platform opposing Communist aggression throughout the whole world."

"I did that, would they accuse me of junking Kennedy's foreign policy?" asked the President. "Any major changes in policy would have all the liberals on my back."

"They don't want Goldwater elected," said Dodd. "You should stand and draft a strong plank, and I'll circulate it among my foreign policy advisers to see what happens," concluded the President.

Later, Speaker McCormack and Mayor Daley followed up Dodd's conference with meetings with the President in which they made the same foreign policy recommendations.

Mayor Daley also urged the President to take a stronger stand against racial disorder, stating that he should speak out publicly denouncing the use of street demonstrations to enforce the civil rights bill.

President Johnson said he would seriously consider these suggestions.

THE NEW SYMBOL — The newly erected memorial to Taras Shevchenko, 19th century Ukrainian poet and freedom fighter, is becoming a major symbol of the growing difference between the Johnson Administration and Republican leaders on policies dealing with Russia and Eastern Europe.

At the historic unveiling of the Shevchenko statue here, former President Eisenhower stirred a crowd of more than 80,000 with a speech that harked back to the "liberation" proposals of the late secretary of State Dulles.

Highlights of the Eisenhower speech came when he told the leaders of the most influential groups of Ukrainians, Poles, and Hungarians in America that:

"My hope is that your march from the shadow of the Washington Monument to the foot of the statue of Shevchenko will here kindle a new movement in the hearts, minds, words and actions of men: a never-ending movement dedicated to the independence and freedom of people of all captive nations of the entire world."

Stories Behind Words

by William S. Penfield

As far back as Roman times the left-hand side has had a bad connotation. All the good implications were reserved for the right-hand side. It is for that reason that the guests of honor are seated on the host's right.

In European parliaments the custom also arose of seating the most noble members of the governing bodies on the right-hand side of the presiding officer. The less distinguished ones sat on the left. The ones on the right generally took a conservative political view, while the ones on the left usually followed a liberal or radical policy. Thus arose the expressions "left-wingers," extreme liberals; and "right-wingers," extreme conservatives.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Drugs Relieve Hay Fever

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

If it isn't hay and doesn't cause fever, what is "hay fever?"

Hay fever is a group of symptoms readily distinguished by bouts of sneezing, congestion and "running" of the nose, itching of the eyes and tickling of the throat.

Wind-borne pollens are generally responsible for this distressing "nuisance illness."

When the exact offending plant, tree, flower or weed is known, exposure to them must be avoided if relief is to be obtained.

Unfortunately, this is not always possible. People cannot plan their holidays around the "estimated time of arrival" of the August pollen season.

Many, but not all, of the chemical secrets of the cause and control of allergy are known. The elusive ones are being actively sought. Until they are discovered, the uncomfortable hay fever victim has a few choices for finding temporary relief.

Method For Relief

One method — probably the least effective — is to desensitize the patient during the actual pollen season.

A better method is the pre-seasonal desensitization of the patient about six weeks prior to the expected onset of symptoms. This affords relief in about 75 per cent of patients.

A third method is the perennial year-round building up of a type of "immunity" to the offending substance.

Antihistamine drugs are often exceedingly efficacious in many instances.

Cause Drowsiness

It must be emphasized and remembered that some antihistamine (anti-allergy) pills often produce the unwanted side effect of drowsiness.

Automobile drivers especially must be warned that the reflexes are not as fast with the sleepy side effects of these drugs.

The particular choice of treatment, the advantage of skin-testing, the use of cortisone and other drugs must be left to the discretion of the physician who knows your singular problem best.

Is the "one-shot" treatment for hay fever and allergies definitely successful?

The one injection anti-allergy technique is being used enthusiastically by reliable investigators in many parts of the country. Some doctors are more enthusiastic about it than others.

Testing Takes Time

It always takes a few years for the over-enthusiastic and the under-enthusiastic to balance out the advantage of a new method of treatment. There is sufficient reason to believe that the one-shot method may, before long, solve many of the resistant problems of allergy.

Is hay fever catching? It definitely is not. Hay fever victims can, however, transmit the bacteria that normally lie in their noses, through violent bouts of sneezing. Don't block that sneeze — just cover your nose.

These columns are designed to relieve your fears about health through a better understanding of your mind and body. All the hopeful new advances in medicine reported here are known to doctors everywhere.

Your individual medical problems should be handled by your own doctor. He knows you best.

Coroner's Jury Finds Koda Negligent; Arrest Soon

Involuntary Manslaughter Charge Planned By Marsh

STROUDSBURG — Albert J. DeWitt, while I was gone it blew up," Koda, 51, of Port Carbon, driver of an explosives trailer that blew up in Marshalls Creek and killed six, will be arrested and charged with involuntary manslaughter early this week, according to the Monroe County district attorney.

Koda was judged guilty of negligence by a Monroe County Coroner's jury Saturday.

James H. Marsh, county district attorney, said Koda will be arrested by State Police after he learned the jury's verdict found the driver had "contributed to the deaths, injuries and damages caused by the explosion" on June 26.

The jury did not return a verdict against the American Cyanamid Co., the firm which manufactured and was transporting the 28,000 pounds of nitro carbon nitrate, 4,000 pounds of dynamite and 99 electric blasting caps.

13 Witnesses

The six-man jury deliberated for 20 minutes before reaching its verdict, after hearing 13 witnesses testify during the four-hour inquest in courtroom two in the county courthouse in Stroudsburg.

Marsh and John C. F. Foelker, county coroner, handled the questioning of witnesses. The proceeding was closed to the public. Only the press and witnesses actually testifying and their lawyers were allowed in the courtroom.

Ede Protests

Francis H. S. Ede of Pen Argyl, Koda's lawyer, asked Foelker if he and his client could listen to witnesses as they testified. Foelker denied the request.

Ede made part of the official record the fact that Koda was not allowed to be in the courtroom when witnesses were testifying. Both Koda and Ede were in the courthouse during the inquest but left before the verdict.

Sunday Ede said he expected such a verdict for some time and also expected that Koda would be arrested and charged with involuntary manslaughter.

The veteran Pen Argyl attorney said he will post bail for the driver as soon as he is arrested.

Marsh said at the inquest he will probably ask the court to set Koda's bail at $10,000. After the arrest, Koda's charges will be brought before a grand jury — presumably in Monroe County — if a change of courts is not requested.

No Koda Testimony

Ede said he would not allow Koda to testify Saturday after he found out "only witnesses for the Commonwealth were going to be allowed to testify and we couldn't hear what they were saying."

"You see the jury arrived at the only decision it could because only one side of the case was presented. We were prepared for this however."

Marsh said to convict Koda of involuntary manslaughter the Commonwealth must prove "gross and wanton negligence and complete disregard for human life."

The district attorney said his case will try to prove "everything we can get hold of." He said this will include trying to prove there were no "explosives" signs marking Koda's trailer when Marshalls Creek firemen arrived to fight a blaze caused by the burning tires.

The lack of signs and leaving the trailer unattended are violations of Interstate Commerce Commission regulations.

Marsh said he will also try to prove the tires on the trailer were used and not in good condition as well as that Koda left his explosive-laden trailer unattended while he went for aid.

DA's New Witness

During Saturday's inquest Alvin DeWitt of Bushkill said while he was stalled in a traffic jam, a short distance south of the scene a tractor stopped opposite him and the driver told DeWitt he was hauling the trailer that exploded.

DeWitt said a tractor was moving slowly toward Stroudsburg when it stopped opposite him and DeWitt jumped up on the running board and asked the driver what happened.

"He said a trailer loaded with dynamite exploded. I was pulling it," he said. "My tire was on fire and I went to get help."

Monroe SPCA Sign Stolen

STROUDSBURG — A three-by-four foot wooden sign was reported stolen from the Monroe County SPCA headquarters on the Wild Animal Farm Rd. in Stroudsburg.

David W. Wisk, president of the SPCA, said the sign was stolen Wednesday between 5:30 and 6:30 p.m.

The sign, valued at $15, was nailed to a wooden post in front of the SPCA. It was white with black lettering. It read: "Monroe County SPCA, Open Daily, 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m. and 7 to 8 p.m. Closed Sunday — Open any time for emergency."

TRUCK DRIVER—Albert Koda, driver of the explosives truck which blew up near Marshalls Creek June 26, killing six, was found guilty of negligence by a Monroe County coroner's jury Saturday. He is shown earlier as he entered Monroe County courthouse to attend Interstate Commerce Commission hearings on the blast. Koda is followed by some of the many lawyers and officials who were at the hearing. (Staff Photo by MacLeod)

Man Injured Seriously In Weekend Accident

MT. POCONO — Area police investigated five accidents over the weekend in which one man was seriously hurt.

Lee Belles of Freehold was reported in serious condition in the General Hospital of Monroe County yesterday where he is being treated for injuries suffered in a one-car crash on Rt. 940, four miles west of Mt. Pocono Saturday shortly before 4 a.m.

State Police at Mt. Pocono said Belles' car was traveling west on Rt. 940 when it went off the road and struck a bridge abutment on the south side of the highway.

He was treated at the scene by Dr. James G. Kitchen of Pocono Lake.

STROUDSBURG — Stroudsburg borough police investigated two separate minor accidents Saturday.

Clifford Levan, 33, of Reading was backing out of a parking space in front of the Colonial Diner at 745 Main St., Stroudsburg at 4:50 a.m. when he struck the parked car of against Koda, said he had a 35-minute interview with the driver on the afternoon of the blast.

The fire marshal testified that when he asked Koda what his cargo was the driver said NCN and dynamite. Komoshinsky said he asked him this question twice.

When he asked Koda why he didn't tell him about the blasting caps, Komoshinsky said, "He told me he didn't know if it was legal to haul caps."

Other Witnesses

Others who testified at the inquest were:

Richard MacDonald, Marshalls Creek fireman who received the alarm that a trailer was burning. He said he could positively swear there were no signs on the right side or rear of the trailer when firemen arrived. He was injured in the blast.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Livingston, owners of the Pocono Red Life Farm that was demolished in the blast. The Livingstons said they were awakened by a man who wanted them to check and see if firemen were on their way.

The man presumably was John J. Horvath of Scranton, a passing trucker who called in the alarm and then lost his life in the blast.

—Robert Warner of Pocono Lake, Warner, a trucker, said he saw a tractor that fit the description of Koda's parked along side a telephone booth on Rt. 209 past Eagle Valley Corner, about 20 minutes before the blast.

Warner said a man was in the booth using the phone.

Coroner's Jury

Serving on the jury were six Stroudsburg residents. They were George Graft, 700 Main St.; Elmer Walton, 584 Main St.; James Somers, 835 Grove St.; John J. Baldwin, 1079 W. Main St.; Charles J. Cincotta Jr., 820 Monroe St.; and Chester Gross, 818 Monroe St.

Police Fire Marshal Stanley Komoshinsky, a state police fire marshal who will act as the prosecuting policeman

Ward explained NCN is a fertilizer mixed with fuel oil and is a dangerous material. He said if dynamite goes off, "NCN will also shoot."

Fourth Explosives Sign Increases Blast Mystery

STROUDSBURG — The mystery of how many "explosives" signs were found in the cab driven by Albert J. Koda on the day of the Marshalls Creek disaster deepened Saturday at the Monroe County Coroner's jury inquest.

Harvey Miller, an American Cyanamid Co. truck driver, from Pottsville told the jury he actually found four signs in the cab and took them out and stored them in a warehouse after he returned the cab to Pottsville, the day after the blast.

Miller said he found two signs under the cab seat and two behind the driver's back rest.

Interstate Commerce Commission agents testified at the recent two-day ICC hearing that they found two signs under the seat of the cab when it was parked at an East Stroudsburg gas station. They did not mention any others.

The Daily Record also found two signs under the seat, early Saturday morning about 24 hours after the blast, but noticed none behind the driver's seat.

Public Invited To Scout Rites At Camp Weygadt

STROUDSBURG — Public is invited to attend Order of the Arrow ceremonies at the Boy Scouts' Camp Weygadt on Wednesday at 8:30 p.m., James A. Flowers, Abnace Lodge chief, said recently.

Flowers said the ceremonies are open to the public to better acquaint people with the aims and activities of the order, which numbers 260 Scouts, Explorers and Scouters from the Delaware Valley Area Council among its members.

The organization was founded in Philadelphia in 1915 to "promote sense, haziness, or an initiation."

note and enrich Scout camping," he said. Members are elected by the vote of all scouts in their troop. They must have fifteen days and nights of camping experience, only seven of which may be in long-term camps, he explained.

The organization is not a secret one, he continued, and ceremonies are open to any parent, Scout leader, or religious leader. Ceremonies are not usually public, however, due to "an element of mystery" in them.

He added that they are in no sense hazing, or an initiation.

In CONGRESS, July 4, 1776.
A Declaration by the Representatives of the United States of America, in General Congress assembled.

WHEN, in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume, among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation.

We hold these truths to be self-evident, That all men are created equal; that they are endowed, by their Creator, with certain unalienable rights; that among these are life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness. That to secure these rights, governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed; that whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the right of the people to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new government, laying its foundation on such principles, and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their safety and happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shewn, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same object, evinces a design to reduce them under absolute despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such government, and to provide new guards for their future security. Such has been the patient sufferance of these colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former systems of government. The history of the present King of Great Britain is a history of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute tyranny over these states. To prove this, let facts be submitted to a candid world.

He has refused his assent to laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good.

He has forbidden his Governors to pass laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his assent should be obtained; and, when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them.

He has refused to pass other laws for the accommodation of large districts of people, unless those people would relinquish the right of representation in the legislature, a right inalienable to them, and formidable to tyrants only.

He has called together legislative bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their public records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures.

He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the people.

He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the legislative powers, incapable of annihilation, have returned to the people at large for their exercise; the state remaining in the meantime exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within.

He has endeavoured to prevent the population of these states; for that purpose obstructing the laws for naturalization of foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their migrations hither, and raising the conditions of new appropriations of lands.

He has obstructed the administration of justice, by refusing his assent to laws for establishing judiciary powers.

He has made judges dependant on his will alone, for the tenure of their offices, and the amount and payment of their salaries.

He has erected a multitude of new offices, and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people, and eat out their substance.

He has kept among us, in times of peace, standing armies, without the consent of our legislature.

He has affected to render the military independent of and superior to the civil power.

He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his assent to their acts of pretended legislation:

For quartering large bodies of armed troops among us:

For protecting them, by a mock trial, from punishment for any murders which they should commit on the inhabitants of these states:

For cutting off our trade with all parts of the world:

For imposing taxes on us without our consent:

For depriving us, in many cases, of the benefits of trial by jury:

For transporting us beyond seas to be tried for pretended offences:

For abolishing the free system of English laws in a neighbouring province, establishing therein an arbitrary government, and enlarging its boundaries, so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute rule into these colonies:

For taking away our charters, abolishing our most valuable laws, and altering fundamentally the forms of our governments:

For suspending our own legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with power to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever.

He has abdicated government here, by declaring us out of his protection and waging war against us.

He has plundered our seas, ravaged our coasts, burnt our towns, and destroyed the lives of our people.

He is, at this time, transporting large armies of foreign mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation, and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty and perfidy scarcely paralleled in the most barbarous ages, and totally unworthy the head of a civilized nation.

He has constrained our fellow citizens taken captive on the high seas to bear arms against their country, to become the executioners of their friends and brethren, or to fall themselves by their hands.

He has excited domestic insurrections amongst us, and has endeavoured to bring on the inhabitants of our frontiers the merciless Indian Savages, whose known rule of warfare is an undistinguished destruction of all ages, sexes and conditions.

In every stage of these oppressions we have petitioned for redress in the most humble terms: Our repeated petitions have been answered only by repeated injury. A Prince, whose character is thus marked by every act which may define a tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free people.

Nor have we been wanting in attention to our British brethren. We have warned them from time to time of attempts by their legislature to extend an unwarrantable jurisdiction over us. We have reminded them of the circumstances of our emigration and settlement here. We have appealed to their native justice and magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common kindred to disavow these usurpations, which would inevitably interrupt our connections and correspondence. They too have been deaf to the voice of justice and of consanguinity. We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of mankind, enemies in war, in peace, friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, in General Congress assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our intentions, do, in the name, and by authority of the good people of these colonies, solemnly publish and declare, that these United Colonies are, and of right ought to be, FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES; that they are absolved from all allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political connexion between them and the state of Great-Britain is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that, as FREE AND INDEPENDENT STATES, they have full power to levy war, conclude peace, contract alliances, establish commerce, and to do all other acts and things which INDEPENDENT STATES may of right do: And for the support of this declaration, with a firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes, and our sacred honor.

Signed by order and in behalf of the Congress,
JOHN HANCOCK, President.
CHARLES THOMSON, Secretary.

Answer: 10 advertisers

Did you think the Declaration of Independence was carried around on parchment scrolls and read in town squares by little old men wearing funny hats, white pony tails and ringing little bells?

Not so. The historic news was spread by papers like The Pennsylvania Evening Post (above). And these papers were supported by advertisers like Hyns Taylor, upholsterer, and David Pancoast, realtor (also above).

The same holds true today.

Without advertisers, the paper you're reading right now might cost one dollar or more.

(At those prices some people would much rather wait for the little old man ringing the little bell.)

What you paid for this newspaper today just about covers the cost of the paper it's printed on.

Everything else—the entire cost of world-wide and local news gathering, pictures, features, the actual engravings, typesetting and printing—has to be borne by local and national advertising.

It's the same with magazines, radio and television. Perhaps we wouldn't be in the dark ages without advertising, but we'd certainly be in the dark.

Of course there's always the possibility that the government would subsidize newspapers, magazines, radio and television.

But in that case, we could hardly expect members of the government to use these media to publicize their own shortcomings or mistakes.

It is apparent, then, that advertising is intimately connected with freedom of speech and freedom of the press.

Because there are advertisers who want to tell you the difference between products, there are newspapers (and radio and television) to tell you the difference between political candidates.

There are some countries, you know, where they don't have a choice between political candidates. Or products.

Theater Costume Design Is Challenge For Louisvillian

Newfoundland — How do you go about designing costumes and sets for Summer stock? The recipe is simple. Take one part ingenuity, one part enthusiasm, one part knowledge, one part vision. Mix thoroughly with several bolts of material, and equal parts of cardboard. Add the proper colors. Fasten with suitable "quick exit" fasteners. Foresee stress points. Add a dash of eye appeal, practicality, and a pinch of durability. As soon as one batch is finished, prepare immediately for another.

This hectic, totally unpredictable, frustrating, satisfying and rewarding work is the first love of Bette Kaelin, talented set and costume designer for the new Newfoundland Musical Theatre.

Working on costumes for some thirty people is much like counting 1,000 chickens in a barnyard. Everybody keeps moving around, breathing, practicing, singing, dancing, hurrying, performing all day and half of the night, a setup which makes trying on a farmer's overalls or a stripper's sequined lights a real challenge.

Bette's 21 When Bette (who is 21, with a charming Southern accent via Louisville, Ky., and expressive, beautiful eyes) dreams up a costume, fits it, and completes it, sound effects are snap-snap, clip-clip, snap-snap, and it's finished. She uses no patterns, but takes a piece of material, holds it up before the wearer, flashes in and out with scissors, puts it together with adhesive tape or staples, with an occasional zipper, tries trim at different points for effect; and you have an outfit for a Hat Box Girl or Gypsy Rose Lee's abbreviated costume.

Bette's workroom is a "sitting room" at The Brookside, the South Sterling resort which the company has filled for the Summer. However, sitting room is at a premium, for there are bolts of fabric, yards of ball fringe, hat forms, pins, staples, glitter, and dozens of hangers with finished costumes on, over, and in every available chair, table and doorway.

Fittings are on a far-from-precise timetable. They take place after a show, before, during or after breakfast, before rehearsals. It is not uncommon for Bette to ask at breakfast, "What is your neck size?" and then write it down on her napkin for future use. Everyone cooperates, but, as the designer moans, "they're usually singing or breathing out when they should be holding still."

Challenging Work Designing in Summer stock is "one big substitute," says Bette. And it is a real challenge, especially when, as at Newfoundland, the productions go on for two weeks instead of one.

There's more time to do things... more opportunity to really go all-out to make the show the best ever," she said.

A native of Louisville, Bette is the only child of a father who would much like to see his daughter settled in a 9 to 5 position, and a mother who is "very clever with her hands — an excellent team-mate in producing costumes and who understands that this is the life for me."

Bette qualifies the fact that she has no brothers or sisters with the footnote that "I'm an only child except for my two horses, Duchess and Brandy... and there are six Shetland ponies." She has worked for eight of her years as assistant set designer for the Brown Theatre in Louisville; has designed and executed costumes for the Plantation Country Club, Recreation Department Dancing Recitals, and the Louisville Civic Ballet Company.

The work she finds "fun, but maddening at times," is the outcome of her training in the arts, crafts, sculpture, designing and dancing. She notes that designing is very unglamorous ("people don't see the sets and costumes... they see the actors, dancers, the color and excitement of the performance.") But she finds it very rewarding...

and she's good at it... which makes a difference when I'm working. I get so wrapped up that I even forget to cash my check! Money isn't important... creating something is."

This week, she has an assistant, who "on vacation," is giving a helping hand to costumes for "Gypsy," this week's production. She is Carmel Conte, mother of Mary Jane Conte, one of the company. Carmel is a professional seamstress.

Bette is right at home in the Poconos. The country reminds her a great deal of her home. She loves the mountains, the "quiet" life of working from breakfast through to breakfast when the occasion demands it, and then "dunking" in the Wallenpaupack Creek's icy waters for a refresher before taking to her stapler and ball fringe again.

New Deadline Deadline for copy for stories to appear the following day on Family Fare has been advanced to 5 p. m. Advance announcements of meetings should be in the office several days before the desired date of publication.

BETTE KAE LIN, set and costume designer for the Newfoundland Musical Theatre, finds painting scenery quite different in the Poconos, where she spreads it out in a "field of 4-inch stubble" and paints over the offending humps and bumps. Bette has created everything from a kitchen set for Pajama Game to a sewer scene for Guys and Dolls.

Needed: Guitar, Patience

Collecting Folk Songs

By Roberta Fleming Roesch
IF YOU have over 600 songs in your head, an ear for music and languages, a vivacious personality, a husband who's cooperative and several other attributes that Mira Gilbert has, you might consider planning a career as a guitarist and folk song singer.

As a professional in this field, brown-eyed Mira Gilbert, the mother of two children, does many different things.

Music Teacher To begin with, she teaches guitar and folk music in her own home and in music classes in New York City. She also performs in 15 languages for concerts, civic programs, schools, hotels, cafes and radio and television programs. In between, she lectures on folk music and uses folk music as therapy for disturbed children. "It all began in Philadelphia," Mira told us when we talked to her in New York. "I was an advanced music student working in the theater in singing roles."

"One day the noted Burl Ives came to town, and I was the person who drove him to the place where he was to do a show."

The program was to change Mira's life. As she watched, the show, she was intrigued by Burl Ives' songs and the way he never ran out of material. "I was also intrigued by the guitar and by the fact that it would be much easier to carry around than the piano," Mira said.

As time went on," she added, "I realized I had a lot of material for songs from my own background. I'd also been exposed to many languages in my home."

With that as a starter Mira deserted the piano for the guitar, taught herself to play it and began performing and building up her repertoire of folk music. She culled material for her songs from literature and traveling and from older people who remembered the songs their grandmothers sang to them in the "old country."

"Today I sing my songs in the 15 different languages," Mira said, "to show the similarities of people in songs."

Distaff Musicians Invade Largely Male Symphonies

Shawnee — In recent years that hitherto exclusive male province—the symphony orchestra—has been undergoing a "feminine invasion" with transformation on the decorative side.

The first member of the opposite sex to break the solid male phalanx of the Philadelphia Orchestra was Edna Phillips, who was harpist from 1930 to 1946. She is married to Colonel Samuel Rosenbaum, one of the advisors for the Pocono Art Center.

When the Orchestra and its 104 members perform the two benefit concerts for the Pocono Art Center's building fund, women will be performing in the violin, cello and harp sections.

Orchestras on both sides of the Atlantic have followed this procedure, and the number of women orchestra players has steadily increased. A recent American poll of 18 professional orchestras showed that as many as one-seventh of the 1,500 musicians employed were women.

Pennsylvania Day At World's Fair

HARRISBURG — Governor William W. Scranton's office today announced that Friday, August 28, has been officially designated as Pennsylvania Day at the New York World's Fair.

The Governor has asked the 100,000 Pennsylvanians for the Promotion of Economic Growth to work in cooperation with the Department of Commerce in planning and coordinating the program for the day.

Special days throughout the year have been set aside by the World's Fair to honor each of the 50 states, and an opportunity is given to each of the states to "tell its story" to the thousands of fairgoers.

The Governor will be greeted by Fair representatives at official ceremonies to be held during the day.

Other activities may be scheduled during the day depending on the interest of various groups throughout the state in contributing special events to the festivities.

Pennsylvania groups wishing to schedule their own events at the Fair on August 28 should contact the office of the "100,000 Pennsylvanians," 501 South Office Building, State Capitol, Harrisburg, Pa. Telephone: 787-6425.

Plans for the Day will be announced as they develop.

Yanks Return To First Place

DETROIT (AP) — The New York Yankees vaulted back to top of the American League Sunday, wrapping up a double-header victory by edging the Detroit Tigers 5-4 with the help of a pop fly single that fell between two Tiger fielders.

The Yankees won the opener 11-6 behind the hitting of Bobby Richardson and Joe Pepitone.

New York moved one-half game ahead of the Baltimore Orioles, who lost to Washington 4-1.

Orioles Bow To Nats

BALTIMORE (AP) — Dave Stenhouse pitched a three-hitter and picked up his first victory of the season as the last-place Washington Senators whipped the Baltimore Orioles 4-1 Sunday.

A third-inning homer by Dick Brown was one of the hits off Stenhouse, who entered the game with an 0-6 record and a 5.28 earned run average. He failed to complete eight previous starts.

Stenhouse struck out eight, walked four and hit one batter. Except for Brown, no Oriole base runner reached second until the eighth when Bob Johnson made his 14th successful pinch hit in 25 trips and Willie Kirkland was hit by a pitch.

Ed Brinkman opened the game for Washington with a homer off Inver Dave McNally, and the Senators scored up the victory with three runs in the fifth.

STROUDSBURG — Bushkill

cllobbered the league-leading Stroudsburg A's, 14-5, and Kunkletown nipped Bowmanstown, 11-9, as both winners moved to within one game of the pace-setters in yesterday's Pocono Mountain Baseball League action.

In other games, Reeders blanked the Stroudsburg Poconos, 2-0, and West End defeated Saylorstown, 7-4.

The wins by Bushkill and Kunkletown were the 11th of the season against five setbacks. The Stroudsburg A's suffered their fourth loss against 12 triumphs.

Reeders moved to within two games of the A's by virtue of its victory, notching its 10th win in 16 outings.

Brommer Stars

George Brommer pitched and batted his Bushkill club to its overwhelming conquest of the A's. Although he was tagged for nine hits, he cracked a two-run single, home run, double and also poked a double and single to register four RBIs and score four others.

Don Westcott led the 18-hit attack with four hits while Denny Patti also collected three.

Bushkill broke up a 2-2 deadlock in the bottom of the fourth by sending 12 batters to the plate, scoring six runs to take an 8-2 lead to seal the verdict.

Starter Harold Strunk, who was relieved in the fourth by Bartley Paffenroth, gave up 10 hits and eight runs and was charged with the loss.

Paffenroth, Lou Fish and Jack Sommers each cracked two safeties for the losers.

Kunkletown Wins

Kunkletown, behind 8-1 after the first 4½ innings, rallied for four runs in the bottom of the fifth and added two in the sixth and four more in the eighth to gain the nod over Bowmanstown.

Roy Nicholas enjoyed a perfect day at the plate for the winners, batting 5-for-5, scoring three runs and batting across two others. Dean Leslie, who picked up the win in relief for Kresge, crashed a homer for Kunkletown. Sterling Schaller chipped in with three hits in five appearances, knocking in four runs.

Reeders tallied a pair of runs in the fifth inning to gain a 2-0 squeaker over the Poconos.

Paul Fraley hurled the route to pick up the win, scattering seven hits while striking out nine and issuing only two walks.

Warren Loney was charged with the loss as he went all the way, giving up only five hits while fanning 11.

Second Victory

West End, winless in its first 14 games, scored its second straight victory by downing Saylorstown which suffered its 11th loss in 16 contests.

The winners tallied three runs in the bottom of the seventh to gain the verdict. The Lakers scored single runs in the first, third, sixth and ninth frames.

Abandoned Golf For 10 Years

Barbara Fay White Stars In Bright Links Comeback

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Golf professional Ned White of Shoreview, La., has a daughter who abandoned golf for 10 years in favor of riding and selling quarter-horses.

She still does it at the age of 23, but blonde Barbara Fay White also has returned to the links.

She capped her comeback Saturday by defeating spunky 21-year-old Patti Shook of Saginaw, Mich., another daughter of a pro, 4 and 3 to win the 64th annual Women's Western Amateur golf championship at Oak Park Country Club.

It was the fourth big triumph of the year for Miss White, a Texas Christian University graduate who will teach physical education at Centenary this fall. Previously, she won the South Atlantic Amateur, the Palm Beach and Florida East Coast.

"Golfed Out"

"At the age of nine, I was 'golfed out,'" she said. "I gave up the game, except for maybe a couple of rounds a month, until I was 19. Then I started playing again. In the interim, my big interest was horses."

The shapely Miss White, garbed in white Bermuda shorts and a striking red shirt, was 4-up on Miss Shook, Valparaiso, senior who won the 1964 National Women's intercollegiate crown, after the morning round. Patti won only one hole, the 18th, when her opponent three-putted.

By the fifth hole in the afternoon round, Miss White was 7-up. Then Miss Shook rallied to win the next four holes with two pars and two birdies as her opponent's game went sour for the first time in the tournament.

Lead Evaporates

In this stretch, Miss White—three putting, missing greens, hitting traps, water and trees—was four over par. Her lead evaporated to 3-up.

She recovered with a 33-foot birdie on the 12th for 4-up. They halved the next three and the match ended on the 160-yard 15th when Miss Shook stuck a 5-iron five feet from the cup but missed the putt and split with par 3.

"Going Away"

"Until I dropped that long putt, I could feel my game going away," said Miss White. "I was in the rough with my drive and had to shoot under overhanging limbs of a tree."

"I took my 2-iron—which I used on this track so much this week that I wore it out. I hit the ball low and hooked it. It came to rest just off the upper edge of the green. I chipped poorly, leaving me with an eight-foot putt, but I sank it for a par 4 to halve."

The 15-year-old Pittsburgher Saturday became the youngest player to capture the State Public Links Golf championship.

He surged from seven strokes behind in the final 36 holes to a sizzling one-over par 72 and a 77 to post an even 300 for three days on the 6,055-yard Hershey Park course.

"Terrific Feeling"

"It's a terrific feeling," Masseria declared as the pressure-packed tournament came to an end with his two closest competitors floundering on the final hole, "I just don't know what to say."

Jim bought the new golf shoes from his brother last Thursday.

"He didn't like them and mine were all beat up so he sold them to me," explained the youngster, who never took a golf lesson. His brother failed to make the cut-off Friday for the championship round.

Strong Bid

But all the tension and excitement of the tournament came after Masseria had finished as the final threesome approached the 18th hole with Bob Hirnisen of Sinking Spring and Jack Ferrante of Philadelphia making a strong bid for the title.

Hirnisen needed a birdie to win and a par to tie. Ferrante an eagle to win, a birdie to tie. Both went after it but ran into trouble. Hirnisen bogeying the par five, 465-yard hole, Ferrante taking a seven.

Wins Playoff

Hirnisen won a one-hole playoff over Norm Schadt of Wedgewood, Bethlehem for runnerup honors. Both ended regulation play with 301s, the long-hitting star from Berks County outshot Schadt 7-5 on the 15-yard first hole in the playoff.

It was Masseria's third round and his mastery of the hard hole that turned the tide. With the 72.

Phillies Lose 2 To Cards

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Southpaw Gordon Richardson, making his first major league start, and lefty Ray Sadecki hurled the St. Louis Cardinals to 6-1 and 4-1 victories over the National League-leading Philadelphia Phillies Sunday.

The losses cut Philadelphia's lead to one half game over the San Francisco Giants, who defeated the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-2.

Richardson, backed by Curt Flood's three hits and four runs batted in, checked Philadelphia on five hits in the first game.

He had a one-hit shutout until doubles by Richie Allen and Alex Johnson in the seventh gave the Phillies their only run.

In the first game, Flood drove home two runs with a double in the Cards' three-run second inning, singled in Tim McCarver, who had doubled in the second, and rapped a long sacrifice fly after McCarver's triple in the eighth.

Cy Barrett Says Photo Shops Valuable

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.
DEAR CY:
If you had seen my husband, Burt, when the cruise boat pulled into Jamaica, you would have thought he was a race horse at the starting gate! Like all the other passengers, he was chafing at the bit to get over the side and buy, buy, buy. One of the things he got was a tremendous buy on a foreign made camera, but it doesn't seem to work. Our local photo shop owner says, "I wouldn't have sold you a camera like this, and wish you would get something else so you can take some good pictures."

Burt and I think this dealer is a poor sport and angry because we bought a fine camera at a bargain price elsewhere. Right?

MIDGE

DEAR MIDGE:
Burt (and anyone else who is willing to spend money and time hunting) can buy something at a lower price. A photo shop is a service organization which flourishes only through helping its customers take good pictures.

Sure, they enjoy selling photo equipment to camera equipment bugs, but pictures are good photos — is their business. The photo shop may charge more but its personnel advise helping, coaxing and cajoling customers into satisfaction through results.

Perhaps Burt's picture taking prowess is not up to the foreign camera, or the machine is no good. Either way, your husband has slung himself around the local dealer's neck.

Hereafter, poor pictures will be blamed on the local man, not the importer in Jamaica who is busy selling more frenzied American tourists. Before you pack for the next cruise, hang Burt on the closet door and focus him in on this face: "Lowest price" doesn't mean "best buy" or "bargain."

CY

DEAR CY:
Employing handicapped workers is good public relations, but I don't like working alongside one. This man has a badly disfigured face and it bothers me to work beside him. They way he acts, you'd think he was just like anyone else!

MASTERTON

DEAR MASTERTON:
Many handicapped persons tend to overlook their drawbacks and develop a positive attitude which can stimulate those around them. My hunch is you have been working alongside this handicapped individual a short while.

As time elapses, you will become more aware of his personality. The disfigurement will be overshadowed by the man himself. Which may uncover more of the man within you.

Washington Report Negro Riots In New York More Rage Than Protest

By Richard Spong
Editorial Research Reports
WASHINGTON — Night after night of barely controlled violence in the streets of Harlem and the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn give rise to the fear of contagion.

The cause of the New York demonstration is alleged police brutality, and hence entirely local.

It is not profitable to speculate at a distance on the merit of the charge against the police; certainly the lack of mercy in the method of protest is clear.

But in what John Lewis of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee warned might be a long, hot, and discontented summer, local incidents in Negro ghettos in other cities may well set off similar violent demonstrations.

The quality that distinguishes the outbreaks in New York from true civil rights demonstrations is their core of sheer rage. Police in other cities might have even less success in putting down what amounts to insurrection.

Striking changes in police operations in recent years fortunately have provided new equipment and training. Radio and teletype communication have improved coordination of personnel.

A policeman using a small walkie-talkie can bring a dozen fellow officers to his assistance within a few minutes.

Police in some cities carry a pocket transistor radio on which they receive but cannot send messages.

Some years ago Cleveland police reduced thefts of automobiles from 300 to 80 a month by use of the handie-talkie, a portable radiotelephone which enabled policemen at observation posts to signal pursuit cars stationed five or six blocks away.

The handie-talkie can also be used with a loudspeaker for crowd control.

A more controversial development is the use of the police dog. German shepherd dogs have long been used for police work in Europe, and in the past decade a growing number of U.S. police forces have added K-9 corps.

The dogs are trained to work with a single policeman who usually houses the dog in his home.

Police dogs are not vicious. They are taught to bring down a fugitive by the arm or leg but not to inflict serious injury.

Nevertheless, use of dogs to clear streets, particularly in Jackson, Miss., has been severely criticized and undoubtedly has marred the American image abroad.

Interest in special training of police for riot control has been heightened by racial conflicts.

TB Society Moves Office To Scott St.

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Tuberculosis and Health Society moved from 621 Sarah St. to 509 Scott St. in Stroudsburg Saturday and will open its new office today.

The Red Cross has moved its headquarters from Courthouse Square to the Scott St. building and the heart and cancer societies will move into the county-owned building soon.

X-Ray Mobile

Mrs. Estelle Fleming, executive secretary of the tuberculosis society, said the mobile chest x-ray unit will be in Monroe County again Aug. 4 and 5 to complete its inspection of resort workers and foodhandlers.

The x-ray mobile will be at Shawnee Inn, Tuesday, Aug. 4 from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. and at Bailey's Service Station in Echo Lake from 1 to 3 p.m.

It will move Wednesday, Aug. 5, to the Inn at Buck Hill Falls from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m.

6 N. J. Youths Hit Barber Pole

EAST STROUDSBURG — Six New Jersey youths charged with disorderly conduct and breach of the peace for damage to a barber pole were released from the Monroe County Jail yesterday after they posted $23 bail.

They will get a hearing today before Harold Larson Sr., East Stroudsburg Justice of the Peace.

The men, Robert Hird, 23, of Glendora; Francis Jemetti, 25, of Camden and Gerald Little, 21, of Laurel Spring and David Niesser, 22, Joseph Etti, 21, and Frank Chase, 22, all of Rummel, N.J. were apprehended by Stroudsburg police early yesterday morning.

Stroudsburg police were alerted by East Stroudsburg police. The group was apprehended about an hour and a half after the mischief took place.

The offenders allegedly took the globe from the barber pole at Summa's Barber Shop on 67 Crystal St., East Stroudsburg, Sunday at 1:15 a.m. They broke the globe and later threw the light bulb at a passerby, police said.

Eastburg Joint Meetings Planned

EAST STROUDSBURG — The East Stroudsburg Area Joint School Committee will hold special meetings on Wednesday and Thursday of this week in the junior-senior high school in East Stroudsburg.

The joint committee will hold a joint meeting with its building authority Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. to consider a bond issue to finance the renovation of the old N. Courtland St. elementary school.

The Thursday meeting will begin at 8 p.m., according to T. B. Courtright, district secretary, who made the announcements.

Trailer Burns At Bangor A&P

BANGOR — An aluminum sided trailer which was backed into the Bangor A&P unloading platform caught fire about 8 p.m. Saturday.

The 40 foot trailer, owned by a Philadelphia trucking company, sustained several thousand dollars damage. The roof of the A&P store was slightly damaged.

Thirty volunteer firemen from the Bangor Fire Co., responded to the alarm and doused the blaze. There were no injuries reported. The cause of the fire has not been determined.

Juvenile Tries To Start Fire

STROUDSBURG — A 17-year-old boy who allegedly set fire to a sofa in his mother's home last week is awaiting action by Monroe County juvenile authorities.

The youth also reportedly threatened to kill his mother. He later stole a vehicle owned by the Turtzo Real Estate firm in Bangor and was arrested.

PM Democratic Club To Meet

1st Civil Rights Decision Covers All Hotels, Motels

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Decisions handed down by a federal court removed any question about the Civil Rights Act covering hotels and motels but failed to define the limits of the law's application to restaurants.

In the first tests of the law, the three-judge court held: 1. Congress was within its power in enacting the public accommodations sections, under the Interstate Commerce Clause of the Constitution.

2. That Section 201 expressly covers all hotels, motels or other places with more than five rooms providing lodging for transient guests—thus excluding only places housing permanent guests or with five rooms or less for rent.

3. That the Pickrick Restaurant in Atlanta and other restaurants of "sufficiently similar" circumstances come within the provisions of the law.

4. That decisions on whether a restaurant is in the affected class "must be made on the circumstances of each case."

The court issued injunctions Wednesday against the Pickrick and the Heart of Atlanta Motel, operating on a segregated basis, but delayed the effective date until Aug. 11 to allow appeals to the Supreme Court for final adjudication of the issues.

The basic attack on the law in each case was its constitutionality. Attorneys for both the motel and the restaurant contended Congress had exceeded its power to regulate commerce "among the several states"—as the Constitution provides.

Different issues were raised as to application of the law since the sections on hotels and restaurants are different in language.

"Unconstitutional"

In the Heart of Atlanta controversy, the motel brought suit against Atty. Gen. Robert G. Kennedy to block enforcement of the laws as unconstitutional. Damages of $11 million were asked on a claim that compliance would mean the taking of private property without just compensation.

The court held the damage claim was without merit and, in any event, should have been taken to the federal claims court.

"The real question," the court said, "is whether Section 201 is constitutional."

In upholding the law, the court relied on a Supreme Court decision which held: "The power of Congress over interstate commerce is not confined to the regulation of commerce among the states. It extends to those activities intrastate which so affect interstate commerce or the exercise of the power of Congress over it as to make regulation of them appropriate means to the attainment of a legitimate end—the exercise of the grant of power of Congress to regulate interstate commerce."

Claim Rejected

"It is clear," the court said, "that the attack by the complainant on the constitutionality of these sections of the Civil Rights Act must fail."

A permanent injunction was issued against the motel.

In the Pickrick Restaurant case, three Negroes filed suit against the restaurant and its owner, Lester Maddox, after they were chased from the place by Maddox and a crowd of whites July 3. The Justice Department joined in the suit.

Here, the court had to decide if one of two conditions obtained as specified in the new law.

Interstate Travelers

1. Serving or offering to serve interstate travelers.

2. A substantial portion of the food which it serves or gasoline or other products which it sells has moved in commerce.

They argued that goods purchased by the restaurant no longer were in commerce and that racial segregation had no adverse effect on interstate commerce; therefore, could not be reached by congressional act.

Entering a temporary injunction against the Pickrick, the court again disposed of the constitutional issue on the same precedents, plus some others, as in the motel case.

A key question, the court said, was whether it was irrational for Congress to conclude "that the prevention of racial discrimination in such otherwise local businesses is also within its regulatory powers because of the effect of such practices on interstate commerce."

No Servitude

The court said it could find nothing to prohibit the enactment of the law. It said there was no question of freedom of association or involuntary servitude.

On the basis of the two conditions in the law, the court said the Pickrick was covered because much of its food had moved in interstate commerce and it at least offered to serve interstate travelers.

State Police Exhibition Free At Hazleton Aug. 14

HAZLETON, Pa. — The famous State Police Exhibition will be held in Hazleton Friday, Aug. 14 at the Harman-Geist Memorial Stadium.

Area residents will have their first opportunity in three years to see the exciting show, which features trick riding, precision cavalry drills, pistol shooting, trained dogs, clown acts and daredevil motorcycle stunts.

Two performances are scheduled, one in the afternoon and one in the evening.

Admission will be free. All participants in the exhibition are active enlisted members of the Pennsylvania State Police and many are natives of the Hazleton area.

The show is designed to entertain and thrill the public while, at the same time, demonstrate some of the special skills of the police officer. Lt. Edward J. Switaj, acting commander of Troop "A" here, said the overall purpose of the show is to promote public understanding and appreciation of the policeman and his work.

About 36 million Americans move each year.
